

DELAWARE & LEHIGH NATIONAL HERITAGE CORRIDOR

To our D&L Community,

When completed in the coming years, the D&L Trail will traverse 165 miles from Wilkes-Barre to Bristol, which will make it one of the longest continuous trails on the East Coast.

While the mileage number is certainly impressive, it pales in comparison to a much larger number: the tens of thousands of lives that benefit each year across the entire Delaware & Lehigh National Heritage Corridor.

The number includes elementary schoolchildren who learn about our region's rich industrial heritage as part of our educational enrichment programs.

The number includes restaurateurs in White Haven and gallery owners in New Hope, and hundreds of other business owners who benefit from the nearly $250 million in economic impact the corridor generates.

The number includes thousands of newly active people who have lost weight and improved their health as part of our award-winning Get Your Tail On The Trail program.

And the number includes families that escape the urban (and suburban) grind to spend time alongside the mighty Delaware and Lehigh rivers, enjoying trees and wildlife that provide an essential reconnection to the earth.

These are the numbers that matter most to us. We're proud that we can serve so many people in so many ways as stewards of this corridor.

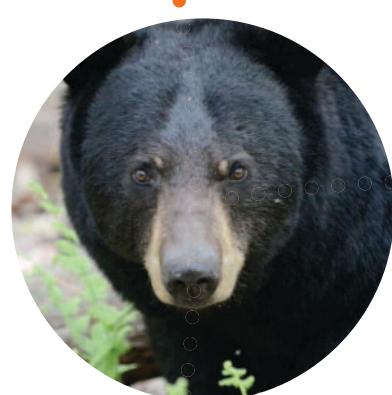

For all of you who support us with your volunteer time, your donations and your passion, we thank you. We also wish to thank Nick Forte for his vision and leadership as Chair of the D&L National Heritage Corridor board for the past four years.

We have a true 165-mile treasure in our own backyard. It's up to all of us to make the most of it.

See you on the trail,

Michael Drabenstott, Chair

Customers, Communities & Connections

Since its inception, the Landmark Towns of Bucks County program has achieved many milestones, but one of 2016's highlights was a full-day workshop held at Yardley Community Center called Understanding Your Community's Customers & Market Profile. Julie Fitzpatrick, of the PA Downtown Center, taught participants how to use market profiles to benefit their businesses and communities. Zip code data collected in 2015 by local businesses in New Hope, Yardley, Morrisville, and Bristol, was used to create several reports (one for each community plus a region-wide report) that focused on detailed demographic and psychographic statistics.

With D&L assistance, New Hope Borough obtained $310,000 from PECO, the Bucks County Open Space Fund and local grants to improve connections between town and the canal.

After working for ten years in the Landmark Towns and three years in the Anthracite Region's Market Towns, the D&L assembled a comprehensive self-assessment tool for communities located along the 165-mile D&L Trail. Working with Carbon County Chamber & Economic Development, the new D&L Towns pilot was tested in Lehighton and Slatington with a focus on community and economic development around trail tourism and outdoor recreation.

Greenways and Great Places

The 2016 Eastern Pennsylvania Greenways & Trails Summit was held in September at ArtsQuest in Bethlehem. Nearly 200 people attended the summit, which featured keynote speaker Chuck Flink, one of the nation's leading greenway planners. Having created plans for more than 225 communities within 36 states and consulted on projects in South America, Asia and Central Europe, Flink generously participated in a tour of Allentown D&L Trail gap sites. Summit participants also ventured to the National Canal Museum in Hugh Moore Park, where they enjoyed food truck offerings while socializing. During the summit, the D&L was awarded the Great Trails & Greenways Certificate on behalf of the PA Chapter of the American Planning Association.

Get Outdoors PA Festival attracted 800 people to Jacobsburg Environmental Center for a celebration of National Public Lands Day, National Bike to Park Day and National Hunting & Fishing Day. Senator Mario Scavello sponsored the event. DCNR Secretary Cindy Dunn found herself in the spotlight when she helped release thousands of tagged Monarch butterflies.

Lehigh Valley Greenways' new website provides a home for the D&L's Conservation Landscape educational and promotional materials. Incorporating a new LVG logo, the site features upcoming events, accomplishments, searchable map of all funded mini-grant awards and provides a place to apply for future mini-grants.

A Healthy Relationship: D&L and St. Luke's

Last June, the Washington Post's Health Section featured our collaborative partnership with St. Luke's University Health Network.

Our popular Get Your Tail on the Trail initiative has attracted more than 6,000 participants over the past four years. They have logged more than two million miles walking, running or biking along the corridor, using the D&L Trail Network as their own backyard gym.

St. Luke's has a long history in the region. Beginning in 1872, its hospitals catered to industrial workers in the mines, on the railroads and at Bethlehem Steel. Now, St. Luke's is a vital healthcare provider for the area – from urgent care centers and doctor offices, to physical therapy centers and hospitals.

Working with Executive Director Elissa Garofalo, Bonnie Coyle, St. Luke's Director of Community Health and Ken Szydlow, VP for Marketing and Public Relations, recognized the opportunity and created a team to connect St. Luke's healthy lifestyle expertise with the recreational, trail and heritage leadership of the D&L.

Get Your Tail on the Trail has spurred additional healthy offerings at St. Luke's. Walk with a Doc allows participants to walk their own pace while having an opportunity to have questions answered by local physicians.

A new web site is now under development that will improve tracking of health data and encourage local chapters to form.

2016 D&L Trail Highlights

Corridor-Wide Impact

- 82 schools participated in Tales of the Towpath curriculum
- 7000 volunteer hours donated
  - Lincoln Steward & Scott Pretti biked 284 miles on D&L Trail in under 24 hours

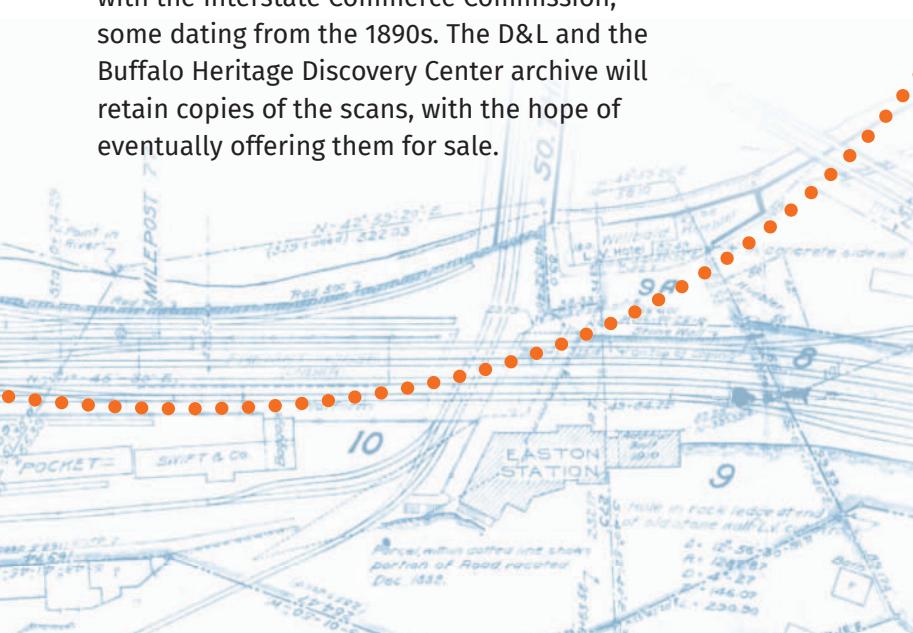

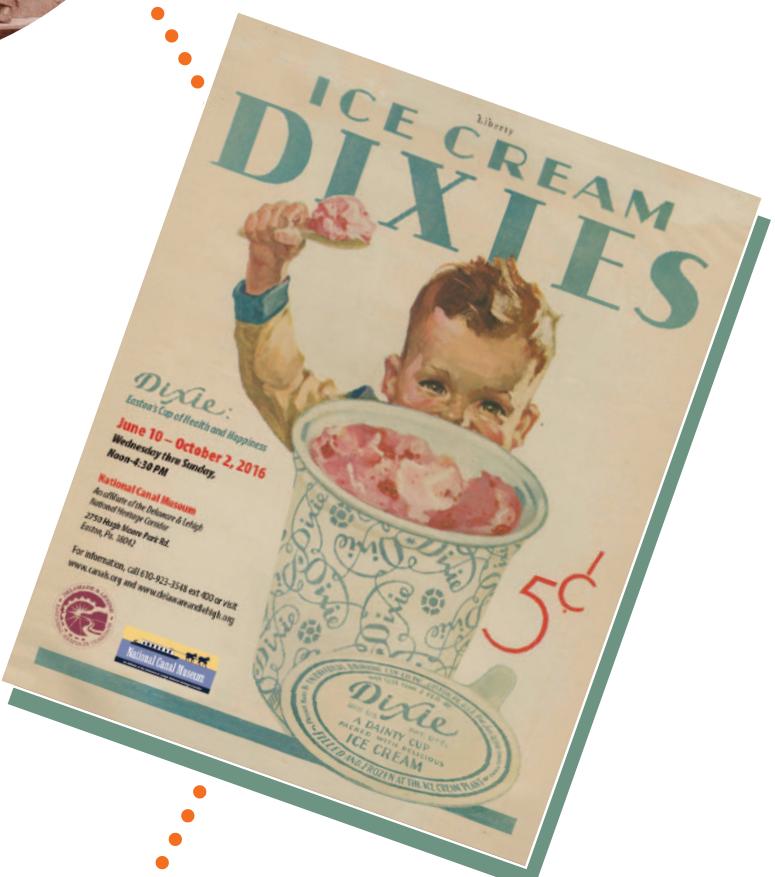

Several thousand maps and charts from the Lehigh Valley Railroad have remained untouched for years in the Easton archives building; until now. Stephen Titchenal, a dedicated railroad historian, has been meticulously scanning these historical documents over the past year to ensure their preservation for future generations.

Titchenal volunteers with the Erie Lackawanna Historical Society and other railroad historical groups which share archive space in Buffalo's Heritage Discovery Center. The groups' archives include railroad valuation maps, nicknamed "val" maps, for all the rail lines that ran through New York State, including the Lehigh Valley.

During his research, which brought him to Easton from his home near Cleveland in the spring of 2016, he uncovered charts and engineering drawings that the railroad filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, some dating from the 1890s. The D&L and the Buffalo Heritage Discovery Center archive will retain copies of the scans, with the hope of eventually offering them for sale.

Railroad Maps and Iconic Dixie Cups

The National Canal Museum's featured 2016 exhibition, Dixie – Easton's Cup of Health and Happiness, drew thousands of visitors, including many current and former Dixie Cup workers and their families.

The iconic Easton industry was founded by Hugh Moore, a marketing genius who invented the cup as part of a 20th-century health and sanitation campaign against the common drinking glass. The company's products expanded to include containers for sweet treats, lunch counter meals, picnics, parties and leftovers. Decades later, the iconic Dixie Cup remains the eponymous word for a disposable paper cup.
